HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN. Quantity of Seed to the Acre.

Southern Agriculturist.] Doubtless many of the best farmers frequently are puzzled to know the quantity of seed it requires to sow an acre of ground. To aid them, we lay before the patrons of the Agriculturists, the following table, giving the quantity of seed and number of plants requisite to crop an acre of land, which will prove valuable to farmers and gardeners, and to families generally who may have only a small garden. It can always be referred to, and will set one right in any matter of doubt connected with the subjects involved :

Asparagus in 12-inch drills, 16 quarts. Asparagus plants, 4 by 11 feet, 8,000. Barley, 2½ bushels to the acre.

THEORY POSTONAL

An Early Crop of Peas.

American Agriculturist.] There are two distinct classes of and others with much larger, irseeded, or marrow peas are as much ernor, and said: better than the others as sweet corn is superior to field corn, The round peas, while not so good, are much hardier and earlier than the others. Unless the soil is warm, and they will decay before they can come up. The round peas are vastly better than no peas, and are very acceptable until the others come. To have early peas, they must be sown early -the earlier the better. After the ing soil has thawed for the first four peas. If the ground was manured ter, please show the military gentleand plewed last Autumn, all the man to the door, and admit the next better; if not, select the richest available spot, and open a drill four inches deep. Peas should be covered deeper than most other seed. For varieties, the Early Kent is one of the best; it has almost as many good strain of this pea. Carter's First Crop is another good variety, and every Spring new extra early Kent with a new name. The peas should be sown in the bottom of the drill rather thickly, at least one or English, with full directions for preparput about four inches of course stable manure over the rows; this is to be left on in cold days, but when it is summy and warm pull it off with the rake, and let the sun strike the soil over the peas, replacing it at night. When the peas sprout, gradually cover them with the warm soil, placing the coarse manure over them as needed, until the covering of soil reaches the level of the surface. If lows: a ridge of soil a few inches higher than the peas be drawn up on each side of the row it will greatly protect them from cold winds. When the plants are a few inches high, draw some fine soil up to them, and stick in the brush. When the soil becomes dry and warm, the main crop of wrinkled peas may be sewn.

A Burglar Trap.

A country store keeper in Connecticut having been annoyed by robberries of the contents of his cash drawer, lately contrived the following trap: He arranged in the floor a trap door which perfectly matched the boards of the floor. In the day time the door was securely fastened, but at night on leaving the store a catch was so fixed that the moment the unexpecting burglar stepped on the door to operate on the money drawer, the trap door opened and dropped him into a pit in the cellar below. The sides of the pit were The comparative value of corn and smooth and higher than a man's head
